Do I have to make the deduction?

Yes, this is an insurance based plan, where all employees are in the plan in case they may at some time in the future need to use the benefit. Only employees who know they will work for less than 175 days, for example a summer seasonal employee, will not have a deduction as long as they fill out a waiver form

Do I have to take Paid Family Leave all at once?

Leave can be taken either all at once or in full-day increments. You may take the maximum time-off benefit in any given 52-week period. The 52-week clock starts on the first day you take Paid Family Leave.

Can I combine annual leave and Paid Family Leave?

No, you cannot use accrued annual leave to make a full check. You can use annual leave first, and then use Paid Family Leave, or you can save your annual leave and use it later. If you want to be guaranteed the right to use annual leave for paid family leave covered events, it will start the ten week clock.

Can I use Paid Family Leave for my own personal illness?

No. This benefit only provides leave for bonding after the birth or adoption of a child, care for a seriously ill family member, or for preparation for a family member's military deployment.

How do I start using the Paid Family Leave benefit?

You must notify your employer at least 30 days before your leave will start and obtain the required forms. If circumstances are not foreseeable, notify your employer as soon as possible.

What if I had a baby in 2018?

You can still use the Paid Family Leave benefit in 2019, as long as it is within one year of the birth of the child.
